Beginning November 1 and 3, and running through December, Rev. Jude Bagley-Bonner will once again lead a book study open to all. The book we will be discussing this time is called Living at God's Speed, Healing in God's Time by Chaplain Charles W. Sidoti and Rabbi Akiva Feinstein. This is a book of sixty short devotionals (one or two pages each) which lend themselves to easy daily reading, and rich group discussion.

The groups will be held on Sunday Mornings at 9A.M. and Tuesday Evenings at 6:30 P.M. Here at Faith UCC. Please do sign up in advance by calling 941-746-8890, M-F 9am-12pm.

The authors' contention is that God's time often differs from our time. The authors provide spiritual insights about how to cope with constant change and the worry about the future that comes with it. Their hope is that when using this book, readers will become increasingly aware of God at work in the universe and within the context and changes of their own lives. The authors believe that this growing awareness will make a profound difference in the way we live. This is a wonderful companion book for all who seek a deeper relationship with God.

You can either buy the book yourself on amazon.com, or you can be part of a group order through church.

The cost of the book, including shipping is $16.54 To be part of the group order, please call the church office between 9-noon Monday through Friday. (941-746-8890). The order will be placed on October 15 so no additions can be made after that date.
